Lewis N. Clark Releases Fine Leather Collection

Elk Grove Village, IL (PRWEB) December 2016

With both security and organization embedded into its design, Lewis N. Clark's® new fine leather collection allows individuals to travel comfortably and stylishly anywhere in the world.

"We're happy to expand our reach in RFID products to women. Now more than ever, RFID protection is resonating with all users, beyond just the travel market as more consumers become aware of the credit card chips and the dangers of their personal information being hacked," said Jen Panattoni, Director of Business Development.

Constructed of genuine leather that withstands the abuse of traveling and daily use, the collection consists of a clutch, wristlet, and passport cover.

The clutch accommodates a phone, passport, keys, feminine products, etc., and the interior zippered pocket is ideal for change. There is also room for cash or receipts along the sides.

The wristlet features a main compartment for daily essentials, and both the clutch and wristlet are accented with silver polished hardware. They also come with removable wrist straps. Whether it's a dinner party, vacation, or fitness class, they make it easy to stay on the go.

The feature that sets both of these products apart, however, is that they contain a multitude of card slots that help prevent unauthorized RFID scanning. This special RFID-blocking lining shields credit cards from transmitting personal information without the owner's knowledge.

Similarly, the passport cover is RFID-protected, which is especially important when traveling abroad. The durable cover also protects passports from the nicks and scratches of frequent travel, and it can be laid flat so that the ID page is easily accessible to airport personnel.

Available in deep blue, black, and gray, these classic colors are as home at business meetings as they are at the airport or grocery store.

The lightweight, portable, and compact fine leather collection is available immediately.
