Lewis N. Clark Expands WaterSeals Waterproof Collection

Elk Grove Village, IL (PRWEB) April 2017

In light of the outstanding response from retailers and consumers alike, Lewis N. Clark® has expanded its WaterSeals™ collection to include additional pouch sizes and new hard cases.

“Travelers spend a lot of time in, around and under water and we’re excited to bring them a collection of travel accessories under the WaterSeals name that helps keep their gear dry,” said Jen Panattoni, Director of Business Development.

The WaterSeals automatic double magnetic pouches are dust-proof to a hermetic level, waterproof to 100+ feet, and are perfect for scuba diving, snorkeling, swimming, and other underwater activities. The zip pouches are submersible up to 9 feet and are ideal for kayaking, surfing, and snowboarding.

Both the magnetic and zip pouches protect belongings such as electronics, keys, money, and credit cards from debris and water. The clear TPU material also allows individuals to use touchscreens through the pouch so they can take pictures, record videos, and otherwise use their electronics without interference. The straps provide the ability to go hands-free, and both are now available in phone, phablet, and mini tablet sizes.

The new hard cases are constructed of shatterproof polycarbonate and can be submerged in water up to 3 feet. The unique pressure release valve prevents water from entering the case but also equalizes air pressure so the case can easily be opened even if it experiences altitude changes. It is available in 3 different sizes and also incorporates a TPR gasket, soft interior padding, and wrist strap into the design. Its durable construction makes it great for fishing, boating, and camping.

“Adventure knows no boundaries, and it’s our mission to continually bring to market products that meet the demands of travelers everywhere,” said Panattoni.

The WaterSeals collection offers multiple options to accommodate everything from visits to the beach and underwater expeditions to ski trips and cruises. They are available for purchase immediately.
